

Pristatome trumpus vizituojančių dėstytojų veiklos aprašymus:

Dr. Dror Yinon (Bar-Ilano universitetas, Izraelis)

Dr. Dror Yinon teaches at the Program for Hermeneutics and Cultural Studies at Bar-Ilan University. Dr. Yinon's research is focused on existentialism, phenomenology, French philosophy and political philosophy and he has written on Sartre, Camus, Merleau-Ponty and Foucault. His main interest is the thought of Gilles Deleuze and he's currently working on a book on Deleuze's philosophy of experience presented in his 1968 book Difference and Repetition.

Prof. Silvia Benso (Ročesterio technologijos institutas, JAV)

Silvia Benso earned her laurea at the Università di Torino, Italy and her Ph.D. at Penn State University, USA. She is currently professor of philosophy at the Rochester Institute of Technology. Among her areas of interest are ancient philosophy, contemporary European philosophy, the history of philosophy, ethics, aesthetics, and feminist theories. Besides having published articles on Nietzsche, Heidegger, Levinas, and ancient philosophy (especially Plato), she is the author of Thinking After Auschwitz: Philosophical Ethics and Jewish Theodicy (in Italian), The Face of Things: A Different Side of Ethics, Viva Voce: Interviews with Italian Philosophers, and the co-author of the volume Environmental Thinking: Between Philosophy and Ecology (in Italian). She has also co-edited various volumes such as Contemporary Italian Philosophy: Between Ethics, Politics and Religion, Levinas and the Ancients, and Between Nihilism and Politics: The Hermeneutics of Gianni Vattimo. During the past decade, she has devoted herself to the promotion of Italian philosophy within the Anglophone world and is the general co-editor for the series Contemporary Italian Philosophy published by SUNY Press. Most recently, she has been the co-founder of a new philosophical organization dedicated to the study of Italian philosophy: SIP, the Society for Italian Philosophy.